

Navigating the Global American South Conference

April 19 and 20, 2007

Call for Proposals Deadline: November 1, 2006

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is again pleased to host our annual interdisciplinary conference on the globalization of the southern United States, the "Navigating the Global American South", to be held April 19 and 20, 2007.

The theme of this year's conference is Global Health and Regional Solutions.

The conference will explore regional approaches to public health issues and ask what experiences translate between the American South and other world regions.

We encourage proposals from a wide range of academic and professional fields and perspectives on topics such as:

- * Immigrant Health
- * Infectious and Chronic Diseases
- * Maternal and Child Health
- * Bioethics and Human Rights
- * Water Management
- * Human Trafficking
- * Comparative Health Care Delivery
- * Nutrition and Obesity
- * Health Education
- * Drug Development and Distribution
- * Access and Disparity
- * Disaster Relief and Recovery after Katrina
- * Domestic Violence

Please submit your proposals online at: www.unc.edu/globalsouth/conference07
