

SOUNDS OF ST. PETERSBURG

A Workshop for Teachers

SAVE THE DATE!

October 26, 2007

3:00-5:30 p.m. Pre-Concert Workshop

The workshop is FREE, though pre-registration is required

8:00 p.m. Concert (Optional)

www.carolinaperformingarts.org

The UNC Center for Slavic, Eurasian, and East European Studies (CSEES) is proud to sponsor a pre-concert workshop for North Carolina music educators in celebration of the St. Petersburg Philharmonic's evening concert at UNC-Chapel Hill.

Suitable for elementary through community college instructors, the afternoon workshop will stimulate teachers and provide them with lesson plans and teaching resources.

Themes will include: Russia's cultural heritage; the history of St. Petersburg; and, most notably, the music of Prokofiev and Shostakovich.

Concert tickets go on sale July 23, 2007 and are expected to sell out quickly. Discounted tickets available for workshop participants.

For more information, or to pre-register, contact CSEES Associate Director, Jacqueline Olich, at jmolich@email.unc.edu