

21st Century Global Learning Opportunity for NC Students

What: NC school partnerships with schools in Denmark. North Carolina in the World (NCIW), a statewide international education initiative, of the Center for International Understanding, is accepting applications from NC schools interested in partnerships with schools in Denmark.

WHY: To provide your students with the opportunity to learn with and not just about people of other cultures, and to develop special skills to succeed in a global environment.

A priority of the NC State Board of Education is that every public school student will graduate from high school globally competitive. When NC students graduate, they will be involved in the world marketplace, working for international companies, or perhaps working on international teams to solve world health and environmental challenges. Help them acquire the knowledge, skills and perspective they'll need to succeed in our ever-changing global environment through direct contact with Danish students.

For more information and a school partnership application, contact: Angie Bolin, Danish Partnership Coordinator, asb@northcarolina.edu, 919-733-0224, Center for International Understanding, 412 N. Wilmington St., Raleigh, NC 27601. The Center is a public service program of the University of North Carolina.