Investigate the World: Produce New Global Knowledge

- Generate and explain the personal and societal significance of locally, regionally, or globally focused researchable topics or questions.
- Investigate approaches and actions that have been taken to address this question in the past, analyze the context in which they occurred, and evaluate proposed or enacted solutions.
- Use a variety of international sources, media, methods, and languages to identify, collect and analyze the knowledge and evidence required to answer a specific research question.
- Develop an argument/position based on compelling evidence that considers multiple perspectives and draws defensible conclusions.

Recognize Perspectives: Apply Cross-Cultural Understanding

- Recognize and articulate one's own perspective on situations, events, issues and phenomena and identify the influences that shape one's own perspective.
- Recognize and articulate the perspectives of other people, groups, or schools of thought and identify the influences that shape those perspectives.
- Analyze similarities and differences in the behaviors, attitudes and values of people from different cultures to develop an understanding of multiple cultural perspectives.
- Seek deeper understanding about situations, events, issues and phenomena by synthesizing evidence, interpretations, and implications from varied cultural perspectives.
- Articulate how different perspectives interact to influence local, regional, or global situations, events, issues, or phenomena.

Communicate Ideas: Connect and Collaborate Across Boundaries

- Recognize that diverse audiences may perceive different meanings from the same information.
- Use appropriate language, behavior and strategies to effectively communicate, both verbally and non-verbally, with diverse audiences.
- Select and effectively use appropriate media and technology to creatively foster communication and collaboration with diverse audiences.
- Identify, participate in, or build networks with organizations, groups, or individuals from around the world who share common interests and goals.
- Present findings, interpretations and implications of investigations to diverse audiences in ways that recognize and accommodate different perspectives.

Take Action: Enact Global Solutions

- Identify opportunities for personal and collaborative action to address situations, events, issues or phenomena in ways that will contribute to a globally interconnected, environmentally sustainable and diverse society.
- Assess and adjust options for action based on evidence and the potential for impact, taking into account varied perspectives and potential consequences for individuals, cultures, and ecosystems.
- Contribute to the development of the local and global community based on an understanding of and respect for human needs and human dignity across cultures.
- Act creatively and innovatively to raise awareness and advocate action among groups of peers and/or community members to contribute to improvement locally, regionally, or globally.
