A. Lynn White's Bibliography on Contemporary China

<http://www.wws.princeton.edu/~lynn/Chinabib.pdf> [downloadable]

93 pages of bibliography in about 50 categories (origins of the revolution, the CCP from 1921-1949, overview texts, and specific material ranging from art and music to ethnic minorities and Sino-foreign relations)

B. Chinese History Research Site at UCSD

<http://orpheus.ucsd.edu/chinesehistory/index.html>

See esp. the bibliography section ["C" below]

The reviews and essays section provides book reviews and critical essays on fifty classics in the historiography of modern China. The sources section is a guide to English and Chinese materials relating to historical research on modern China. The archives section provides information on Chinese local archives and also serves as a site for researchers to exchange information. The bibliography section contains a list of English-language works on Qing, Republican, and PRC history. It was last updated July, 2001.

The links section contains a list of China-related web sites and provides quick access to the on-line catalogues of East Asian libraries throughout the world.
