

Bibliography

APA Survey Shows Physician Assistants Increasingly Employed in Medical

Practices. (2003, October 14). Retrieved July 2, 2004, from MDLinx Network

Web site: <http://www.mdlinx.com/palinx/theaarts.cfm?artid=738702&ok=yes>

American College of Physicians (ACP) – American Society of Internal Medicine. (2000 Jan. 22). Expanding Roles of Nurse Practitioners and Physician Assistants.

Retrieved July 7, 2004 from the American College of Physicians. Web site:

www.acponline.org/hpp/pospaper/expand\_roles.pdf.

Jacobson, P.D. (1998/1999, Winter). Nurse Practitioners and Physician Assistants as

Primary Care Providers in Institutional Settings. Inquiry-Blue Cross and Blue

Shield Association, 35(4), 432-447). Retrieved July 6, 2004 from ProQuest database.

Moran, M. (2003, July 4). Physician Assistants Extend Access to Psychiatric Care.

Retrieved July 2, 2004, from Psychiatric News Web site:

<http://pn.psychiatryonline.org/cgi/content/full/38/13/5>

White, Jr., G.L.; Davis, A. M. (1999, October). Physician Assistants as Partners in

Physician-Directed Care. Southern Medical Journal, 92 (10), 956-961. Retrieved

July 1, 2004, from Health Source – Consumer Edition database.