

Hamilton 19

1. Please answer the question in the footnote on p. 127.
2. Notice that the Church Slavonic variant of dj > žd is only possible for the past passive participle:
 ОСВОБОДИТЬ ОСВОБОЖУ́ ОСВОБОЖДѢН
3. Can you make a generalization concerning the role of j in the inflection of first conjugation and second conjugation verbs? Do we see anything similar in the inflection of other parts of speech?
3. Look at the footnote on p. 129. What is happening here?
4. Does Hamilton's o > e rule handle ЖѢН, ЖѢНСКИЙ? How?
5. Can you make a generalization about where o > e does NOT apply?
6. Why should nursery words and nicknames violate a language's phonology?
7. Here are some more opportunities for practice. Please conjugate the verbs that are given only as infinitives.

одѣть	одѣну	одевать	одежда
невѣжа	невѣжда	невѣдомый
вязать	вяжу	овязать
мох	мшистый
дикий	дичь
вопить	воплъ
бѣс	бѣсы	бѣшенный
рдѣть	ржавый
рубить	рубль
тьма	тьмъ	тёмный	темница
яйцо	яиц (!)
зайца	заяц (!)		