

Self-Reflection

I
the other day
discovered
what another
uncovered,
that another
recovered
what another
covered –
me,
the other one,
another only other –
the only other way
to say another way
for me to be me
before another me
takes my place in time,
makes my space a sign
for the mimic of a mime of mine