TEACHING RECORD

COURSE DIRECTOR/PROFESSOR

AHSC 285; MEDI 285; SOWO 385 - Interdisciplinary Teamwork in Geriatrics - 3 Credits
Focus: acquisition of skills and competencies necessary for effective interdisciplinary geriatrics care and leadership in a variety of settings, including rural and/or underserved communities. The course includes case- and problem-based learning, observations and participation with practicing teams, and a community service-learning project.
Course Co-Director, with interdisciplinary faculty. (Fall 2001- 2005)

OCCT 251/751- Older Adult Occupations Adaptations and Technologies/Occupation Centered Practice with Older Adults– 2-3 Credits (2001, 2003, 2004- present) Occupational therapy evaluation and intervention with older adults. .Using the OT Practice Framework:Domain & Process, this course focuses on meaningful occupations, client-centered practice, interdisciplinary teamwork, contexts, clinical reasoning, ethics, and investigative reasoning.

OCCT 320/720 A&B: Clinical Fieldwork - 6 credits (1997-present) Curriculum themes are put to practice in the 12 week affiliations in clinical settings. Development of non-traditional clinical sites has expanded services to underserved individuals and developed job opportunities for students upon graduation. Internet discussion forum utilized for support & information for students on Fieldwork.

OCCT 222/722 – Biomedical and Phenomenological Aspects of Illness and Disability – 4 credits (Spring 1999 -2004, 2007-present) Integrates biomedical information with phenomenological narratives on disability. Mental and physical disorders throughout the lifespan are addressed, recognizing the importance of context and the personal experience of disability. The WHO International Classification of Function & Disability (WHO 2002) serves as the course framework.

MEDI 311; AHSC 311 - Basic Aspects of Aging - Program on Aging Course - 1-3 Credits
Known as the Program on Aging Lecture Series, this course is offered for variable credit to interdisciplinary graduate students. The lecture series covers an array of geriatric health topics, from medical conditions to legal issues. The student projects are individually tailored to interests & focus of students from various disciplines. (Fall 2001)

OCCT 207/736 – Practice Environments – 2 credits (Fall 1998-1999, 2006 - present) Person-Environment fit is the model for studying practice environments for OT relative to study of self-awareness and professionalism. The course introduces students to historical, regulatory, ethical, and cultural contexts of practice. This background provides generalist information for exploring a variety of traditional and non-traditional service environments.

OCCT 280- Occupational Therapy with Older Adults – 1 credit, Spring 1997 & 1998

OCCT 232- Physical Rehabilitation II – 5 credits, Spring 1997, 1998

Fieldwork Seminars - Seminars held each semester with occupational therapy students to prepare for and reflect upon their clinical experiences. These seminars involve a teaching process in which students learn about themselves and the clinical environments. The central goal of these seminars is to help students use curriculum objectives to integrate academic experiences with clinical experiences.
