December 15, 2005

Dear Colleagues,

I am writing in support of the Aspect in Russian MediaBook, which I have used in beta-testing with my students at the University of California, Los Angeles. This project is unique in its use of sophisticated linguistic concepts to explain difficult points of Russian grammar in a user-friendly, multimedia format. With its unusual balance of current linguistic theory and ample, true-to-life examples, it encourages students to explore further both concrete issues regarding the Russian language and abstract linguistic concepts. I look forward to further participation in beta-testing in Phase 2 of this important and groundbreaking project.

Sincerely,

Susan C. Kresin