MAN: (WEATHERMAN TYPE VOICE) Weather on the 7’s

MAN: (WEATHERMAN TYPE VOICE) Weather on the 2’s

MAN: (WEATHERMAN TYPE VOICE) Weather on the 8’s

SFX: TWO CAR DOORS SLAM

SFX: CAR ALARM BEEPS WHEN THE DOORS LOCK

SFX: PEOPLE PLAYING VOLLEYBALL

SFX: WIND BLOWING

SFX: TEETH CHATTERING

WOMAN 1: (IN HER 20’S) What a nice night for a cookout, but I didn’t think it would be this chilly in April. Since it looked nice and sunny out the window I just assumed it was warm because I didn’t have time to wait for weather on the 9’s.

WOMAN 2: (IN HER 20’S MATTER OF FACTLY) You should have gone to weather.com.

WOMAN 1: Never heard of it.

WOMAN 2: Really? At weather.com you simply type in your area code and your local weather is provided. They even give an hourly forecast, and since it’s provided by The Weather Channel you know it is reliable information. But best of all there is no waiting for a certain time like weather on the 9’s. You get information you want when you want it.

WOMAN 1: Wow! That sounds so convenient.

WOMAN 2: It is. Especially because I don’t have a set routine in the mornings so I can go to weather.com whenever I get a chance that’s best for me. (PAUSE AND SNICKER) And it will keep you from being the crazy lady in the shorts.

ANNCR: Weather.com Weather when you want it.